Tarkett Human-Conscious Design™

Tarkett Human-Conscious Design™ is our commitment to stand with present and future generations. To create flooring and sports surfaces that are good for people and for the planet. And to do it every day.

Recyclable. Endlessly.

We realise that the journey to net zero is via recycling, so we have our own ReStart® initiative which collects post-installation & post-use flooring from site.

We process this waste at our own facilities transforming it into raw materials for new flooring products.

Good for People and the Planet.

Our material choices matter. So we're totally transparent about our good material choices which play a major role in designing for a circular economy. It's why 98% of our raw materials (over 5,000) are third-party assessed according to Cradle to Cradle® principles. This means we're investigating the health, safety and environmental credentials of our materials and disclosing this through our EPD* and MHS*.

Phthalate-Free.

Phthalates are a type of plasticizer, an ingredient that makes materials like PVC flexible enough for use in flooring. A longstanding debate surrounding the health and safety credentials of phthalates is prompting companies worldwide to rethink the use of these plasticisers. For us the conversation alone was enough to take us in a different direction. Today, all our European vinyl collections are phthalate-free.
